

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention pertains to a method for sequencing a polynucleotide, comprising the steps of: (i) reacting a target polynucleotide with a helicase/primase enzyme (which may be immobilised), under conditions suitable for enzyme activity; and (ii)
5 detecting the interaction between the enzyme and a nucleotide on the target, by measuring radiation.